

Ask the Editors: What (Not) To Do to Get Published in a Feminist Academic Journal

Time: 8 November 2022

Place: Centre for Women's and Gender Research, University of Bergen

Organised by: Redi Koobak and Katrin Losleben, National Research School in Gender Research

Writing articles is a part and parcel of scholarly work yet the whole process from the initial article idea to getting published might seem a bit mysterious if not outright daunting. This workshop for PhD students in gender studies offers insights into process of publishing in feminist academic journals. We will attempt to demystify and discuss the process of submission and peer review of articles.

Schedule

11.30-12 pm | lunch

12pm – 1 pm | Redi Koobak and madeleine kennedy-macfoy – current co-editors of the European Journal of Women's Studies – will share a set of practical writing and editing tips: what to do, and what not to do.

1.15 pm – 2.15 pm | Kari Jegerstedt and Hilde Danielsen – former co-editors of Tidsskrift for Kjønnforskning – will talk about the specifics of publishing in the Norwegian context.

2.15 pm – 2.45 pm | coffee break

2.45 pm – 3.45 pm | workshop & time for sharing and discussing experiences of academic publishing, asking questions, and getting advice.

4 pm | wrap-up

5 pm | dinner

We will cover the travel expenses, accommodation for one night, a dinner and a light lunch for the Ph.D. students affiliated with the research school. We ask you to book your tickets and accommodation, and will provide you with the necessary information for being reimbursed immediately after the workshop.

Please register by 14 October!